1 Tantou T

As introduced in this chapter, "Thrilling Tale of Umami Paradise" is one of the nicknames for my tantou. He's been in charge of me since my first contact up until now (as of January of 2001). (Thank you for everything) Well, so it's been about 5 years? It's been a while.

Now, he is quite famous in many different ways (like on the internet). He quickly remembers the faces of people who send letters, though we rarely meet them. And he is accurate. He has an amazing memory (so goes the rumor). ^^;;

Since I don't live in Tokyo, we have meetings via phone (sometimes mail); we spend most of our time chatting. My laziness is covered by his eagerness. (because we get the idea from these sessions of chatting or i get into the mood because of this) ^^;;
.....Is that okay as a mangaka? (Self tsukkomi)

But he isn't necessarily cooperative when it comes to work (lol) <- i'm just kidding. ^^;;

One more thing is that during a meeting, if I suggest something, he would have to counter my comment by suggesting something 15 times darker, saying, "it won't be funny unless you do this." i wonder if he wants to make AniYoko into dark and surreal comedy.....

However, if i didn't have him as my tantou, i still believe i wouldn't have had the donut (and i wouldn't have been making AniYoko for sure). I am very thankful (I mean it). I really do apologize for the pace of my work making you worry if I'd make the deadline.

Too many letters...
